TURKS HAVE NO DESIRE TO CONTINUE WARFARE NORTH ALABAMA IS UNDER BLANKET OF SNOW

WIRE COMMUNICATION THROUGHOUT THE BIRMINGHAM DISTRICT IS CRIPPLED WHEN WINTER CLASPS SECTION IN AN ICY GRIP.

(Associated Press.)

ATLANTA, Feb. 5.—With Northern Alabama generally reported under a blanket of ice and sleet, wire communication in the Birmingham territory was in a state of chaos today, while coal mine operators in the Northern Alabama district reported operations considerably hampered by the storm.

Low temperatures accompanied the storm which today covered sections of Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Tennessee, the latter state reporting a snow blanket ranging in depth from seven to ten inches, the deepest since the winter of 1917-18. Little relief from the cold is indicated in official weather forecasts, but predict frost for tonight in the Birmingham district if the weather clears.

WIRES DOWN IN MANY PLACES IN WAKE OF STORM

Birmingham Is Cut Off
In Area of Fifteen
Miles of City

The transmission wires of the Alabama Power Company and the lines of the American Telephone company have been seriously interfered with by the recent storm and ice and sleet, in this section of the state.

C. L. Saunders, of the telephone company stated this morning that “only scattering wire trouble” had appeared on the lines of his company locally, but that “the city of Birmingham was isolated for an area of fifteen miles.”

T. L. Beauchamp, local manager of the Alabama Power Company, stated that in the level counties of this end of the state, the ice and sleet had done little damage as compared to what it had done in the mountainous sections. He stated that sleet was said to have borne many wires to the ground in some sections, and that the sleet on some wires was as much as 2 to 2 1/2 inches in diameter.

Mr. Beauchamp stated his company was unable to get into communication with Gadsden; but that it was maintaining communication with Atlanta.

A number of breaks in the current of the Alabama Power company have been noted in Albany and Decatur, caused by the recent stormy weather, according to Mr. Beauchamp.

The Daily was unable to start its machinery until late this morning from lack of power.

Mr. Beauchamp stated he had heard the power companies of Georgia and Tennessee also were greatly put out by the snow storm.

With return of sunshine at noon time today, following the clouds and snow storm, normal conditions began to obtain along the streets of Albany and Decatur. Many business houses, had the snow cleared away from their front entrances by nine o'clock and by noon the side walks had been pretty well clear, the sun's rays aiding materially in this enterprise. The middle of the streets were used early by trucks and business automobiles, but the pleasure cars were conspicuous by their absence.

The Northern sport of “coasting” has been indulged in to some extent. Frank Callahan and Edgar Bailey were seen using a new steel runner on Ferry street. They would start their strange vehicle at the court house and coast down as far as the foot of Ferry near the Albany line.

As the automobile tires do not cut into the snow, as did the old fashioned steel tires, the streets have remained remarkably smooth, and only where heavy trucks made their way were the streets found to be rough. Up to noon time the street cars had not made their regular trips, but by noon nearly all the vehicles usually lining the streets were in evidence.

PRINCE DIES.

TOKIO, Feb. 5.—Prince Sadanaru Fushimi, lord keeper of the privy seal, died today as a result of a stroke of apoplexy.

WHERE ROYAL SUITOR POPPED THE QUESTION.

Duke of York and Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon

It is currently reported in British court circles that it was in Lovers' Walk, St. Paul's, Westbury, Welwyn, Hertfordshire, that the Duke of York proposed and was accepted by Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon. This beautiful walk is on her father's estate, where the Duke was a week-end guest. The Duke, second son of the British rulers, and his fiancee are here shown in their latest posed photograph.

WOMAN HAS THE FINAL DECISION IN THE CHOICES OF MARRIAGES

Rev. Davison Declares Woman Does Not Lose Individuality After Ceremony

Declaring that in marriage choices woman had the final decisions, Dr. C. C. Davison, pastor of the First Baptist church of Decatur, preached on choosing a husband Sunday night, taking for his text “Will thou go with this man?” the question asked Rebecca concerning her future husband Isaac. As touching the obligations of a wife to obey her husband, the preacher said that a woman did not lose her individuality after marriage, and that therefore she was not obliged to obey her husband “except as fitting in the Lord.”

This quotation being taken to mean that a wife must let her conscience be her guide, according to and in connection with the word of God and the leading of the Holy Spirit.

Dr. Davison has lately been preaching a series of very enlightening sermons on the marriage relation, and has brought forward some of the latest written thoughts by eminent modern ministers, as well as citing scripture teachings, as Dr. Davison understands them.

He stoutly upheld one standard of purity for both sexes, and told with effect where by agreement two engaged couples once told each other the exact truth as to their previous relations, and when both were found to have slightly erred the man ungraciously deserted his fiance. Dr. Davison denounced such conduct as ungenerous and as bad faith on the part of the man in the case. In asking why a woman should wed the preacher said, it was God's will, and that woman needed man's support. The preacher denied that woman came to her highest destiny by being independent, in a business way. He said, thirdly, that woman linked herself forever with the race if she were a mother and that her best nature, that of self sacrifice for others was most highly developed in the married state.

As the funeral party, composed of relatives and close friends of the deceased entered the church following the remains, Mrs. T. M. Dix played Chopin funeral march, followed by the hymn “Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me.” Dr. L. F. Goodwin then made a few appropriate remarks and followed them with prayer. Dr. T. G. Harris then read the 91st Psalm, followed by a solo “His eye is on the Sparrow,” B. B. Pickens.

Rev. J. D. Wallace then spoke, having been a near neighbor of the deceased in life. Dr. C. C. Davison then read the 3rd verse of the 20th chapter of 2nd Samuel—“There is but a step between me and death.” The speaker made the usual references to the uncertainty of life, and the need of preparation for life and death. He told a touching story of an old negro slave, who at the direction of his master who told him to follow the north star to reach a certain city. When dying this negro said he believed his Heavenly Master would show him a star that would lead him to the eternal city. The pall-bearers were S. W. Irwin, Benjamin Guinn, George Wallace, L. O. Stout, Milton Lipscomb and Rufus Peerson, the same pall-bearers who Friday were at the funeral of Hugh Boggs, brother of Clay-

DR. HARRIS HEARD BY LARGE CROWD

Christianity is the only religion that appeals to every need, according to the teaching of Dr. T. G. Harris, when he spoke Sunday morning to his congregation, which was large, considering the inclement weather. “Christ is the only great Teacher, who takes man in his entirety, and appeals to his whole personality,” said the preacher in the course of his sermon.

The usual song service preceded the sermon, led by the choir with Mrs. H. O. Troup at the piano. A vocal solo was sung by Mrs. H. H. Pullian, following the congregational singing.

Yesterday being the first Sunday in the month the regular communion service was held with communicants.

A few weeks after his work began as pastor of the Central Methodist church, Dr. Harris, for the benefit of any who could attend the night service and not the morning service, established the practice of holding communion services not only on Sunday mornings but at night as well. The innovation has proven a valuable one and is enlarging the usefulness of the communion service.

The Text Words of Peter.

Dr. Harris took as his text the words of St. Peter: “Lord to whom shall we go; thou has the words of eternal life.”

Several references were made by the speaker to other teachers, and it was suggested by reference to their teachings, just what Peter would have gotten had he decided to turn to them.

“Peter might have turned to the Pharisees. They made up one of the leading religious sects of his day. They were Hebrews of the Hebrews and from a racial standpoint might have satisfied Peter's longings. But their record was not clear. They were not living up to the truths they taught, and besides by their traditions they had made the laws of Moses of no effect.”

Plainly, according to Dr. Harris Peter would have gained nothing of eternal value from the Pharisees. It was then suggested that the apostle might have turned to the Stoicks, but it was explained that as they were denied eternal life, certainly they did not have the words of eternal life.

A sect called “Essenes” was referred to by the preacher, who said were mere formalists, and who thought by bodily cleanliness to secure the favor of the gods. It was also suggested that the doctrine ac-cited to ancient Epicureans—namely eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow ye may die,” might have been accepted by Peter.

After showing the unavailability of other religions according to their own authors and expounders, Dr. Harris took up the claims of Christianity, and drew the same conclusion as had St. Peter that Christ alone has the words of eternal life, and makes an appeal to the whole personality of man, and in the end satisfies every longing of the human soul.

ISMET PASHA DECLARES HE DOES NOT CARE TO RESUME HOSTILITIES BUT CALLS ATTENTION ARMIES FACING EACH OTHER

(Associated Press.)

LAUSANNE, Feb. 5.—Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation, informed the correspondents today that Turkey had no desire to resume hostilities with either Greece or Great Britain as a result of the collapse of the Near East conference, but he emphasized that the Turkish and English armies still were facing each other in Asia Minor.

Ismet said the Turks would consider negotiations officially a/an end. The impression prevails among the conference delegates that Turkey would not be informed officially of the termination of the negotiations inasmuch as it was generally desired to continue the Mudania armistice, thus averting the possibility of a renewal of war.

DUESSELDORF, Feb. 5.—The

The French occupation has been extended to Offenberg and Appenweier, two towns in Baden, presumably as a penalty for German interference with international train service between Paris and Prague. In German quarters it is declared that this latest move of the French has as its real goal the Kehl bridgehead.

This would give the French control of the railways along the right bank of the Rhine. There was little change over the week in the general industrial situation.

The railway workers are being offered cash bonuses in an effort to revive the strike. The communists declare that the German capitalists who refused to fulfill the French demands led to the entire situation and should suffer confiscation of their property.

The usual song service preceded the sermon, led by the choir with Mrs. H. O. Troup at the piano. A vocal solo was sung by Mrs. H. H. Pullian, following the congregational singing.

WICHITA BUILDING BURNS; MANY HURT

(Associated Press.)

WICHITA, Kan., Feb. 5.—At least

31 persons were injured, some of them

so seriously they are not expected to live, and four others are believed to be dead in an early morning blaze which wiped out the Ghetto building, leaving only a four story brick wall covered with icicles and a mass of the burned

wreckage and broken wires.

The flames were discovered shortly after 3 p. m. and escape by stairways was impossible. Many of the occupants of the building slid down ropes to safety. Thirty six apartments composed the upper three stories of the building. A majority of the dwellers were reported to be aged. Some of them feeble. No cause of the fire has been determined.

COTTON MARKET. (Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Relatively easy Liverpool cables and nervousness over the foreign political situation had an unsettling effect on the cotton market at the opening this morning. Opening prices showed a decline of 27 to 33 points under commission house liquidation, Southern and local selling. This carried the price of May off to 22.92.

FARM LEGISLATION

MAY BE DELAYED

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—A possibility that the Lenroot-Anderson Capper farm credits program may be blocked in congress unless there is some assurance of action on the administration's shipping bill was foreseen in some quarters today after a series of conferences.

After a talk with President Harding, Representative Mondell, of Wyoming, Republican leader of the house said there were so many difficulties

in the way of an agreement that it was entirely possible that farm credits measures could not be finally written into law before March 4, despite the fact that legislation on the subject had passed both the senate and the house.

SOLDIERS OF THE FLAG.

Reports to the effect that the war department is getting credit along with some regular West Pointers for opposing the same consideration to civilian officers wounded in the world war, and regular army officers so wounded. It would seem nothing but a plain act of justice for all needy veterans of the great war to share alike. The idea should not gain ground in this country, that any thing but patriotic services rendered and his needs entitles a former soldier to the highest consideration. But a small but powerful minority during the war and since, are accused of showing special favors to West Point graduates. All the inquiry the vast majority of the American people wish made, when the question of a pension arises, is concerning where and when the soldier—whether private or officer, whether of West Point, or Albany-Decatur—was wounded, and how badly he was wounded, and as to his private means for self support. The man who received wounds in battle has the undying gratitude of the American people. Whether he was of the regular army or of the militia is a matter of indifference. The allegations made by those favoring special consideration for regular army officers, against civilian officers and their just claims, do not seem to arise from fair and generous considerations.

Nothing can succeed so well in getting the regular army heartily disliked as for its officers to claim special privileges for its members.

There is one important safeguard we have against the army dominating the policy of the government—the head of the departments are always men taken from civil life and they are subject to pressure and influence from the people generally. And whatever the natural inclinations might be regarding civilian and regular officers they will be very careful lest they offend "the common sense of most".

The officers from civil life who served in the great war are just as honored as those who came by way of West Point, so why should they not benefit alike when the time comes for their retirement, on account of physical disability.

ENOUGH MEN LIKE UNTO WEBSTER AND OUR DIFFICULTIES PASS.

"Webster was against every foe of the Union, whether the foe called himself Southern Nulligicator or Northern Abolitionist. Like all wise men he believed in moderation and had an abhorrence of extremists. He saw the folly of the agitators on both sides and knew that the only way they could be silenced was by reason, by the appeal to fundamental commonsense".

There is not a problem arising in this community that cannot be settled by an appeal to reason—by the use of fundamental common sense. Provided only, we have people of good will among us in sufficient numbers, and who have appreciative minds such as Daniel Webster had. The following word picture of Webster should give force to his words. It was made by Samuel W. McCall, a man who must have known Mr. Webster in life:

There can be no doubt about the majesty of his personal presence. Business would be temporarily suspended when he walked down State Street, while people rushed to the doors and windows to see him pass. To the popular imagination he seemed to take up half the street. He stood nearly six feet, and seemed taller, and he had an enormous measurement around the chest. His head was one of the largest and noblest ever borne upon human shoulders. He had a dark complexion, a gunpowder complexion it was called, a broad and lofty brow and large black eyes, usually full of repose, but in moments of excitement blazing with terrible intensity. One of his severest critics, Theodore Parker, declared his belief that since Charlemagne there had not been such a grand figure in Christendom. . . . He possessed as noble a voice as ever broke upon the human ear—a voice of great compass, usually high and clear, but capable of sinking into deep tones that thrilled the listener. He made himself heard by nearly fifty thousand people at Bunker Hill.

WAR CHEMISTRY'S SOFT SIDE.

Secretary Weeks in a letter discussing some phases of chemical research for war purposes made this interesting statement:

"The most outstanding and important result of this research work carried on in the interests of national defense has been to discover the means for saving life rather than the discovering of startling means for destroying it."

Warnings have been many as to the accumulated horrors which chemistry was piling up for use in future wars. It is reassuring to have this milder aspect of the question presented by an authority.

Among the offshoots of this war research work, the secretary cites the isolation of the botulinus germ, with the consequently better hope for fighting it and other deadly germs successfully. He notes that for every poison there is an antidote, and for every gas, a mask or protective clothing already devised or nearly perfected. A way has been discovered for fumigating ships, better and safer than any previously known. A chemical has been compounded which when used in a gas mask offsets the deadly carbon monoxide gas—the curse of the coal miner. Another affords protection against ammonia gas, hitherto an irresistible death agent. Antidotes for agricultural insect pests have been discovered also. All of these discoveries are infinitely valuable not only in war but to the peace-time health and industry of the nation.

The next great step is to isolate the war germ and find its antidote. Then the world can go on with the profitable use of the benevolent agencies while their sinister opposites, no longer required, can be forgotten.—Tuscaloosa News.

They mean clear, ruddy, lovable complexions. They mean a new life, they mean all you ever wanted for your blood. They mean freedom forever from pimples, from the blackhead pest, from boils, from eczema and skin eruptions, from rheumatism, impurities, from that tired, exhausted, run-down feel.

Mrs. Sharpe Declares Daughter Helpless For Months, Restored By Tanlac—Gains 45 Pounds.

"My daughter, who is now eighteen, says 'Tanlac and mama' are the dearest friends she has," recently stated Mrs. H. A. Sharpe, 2504 N. Street, Richmond, Va.

"Alma first began to have slight trouble with her stomach and soon rheumatism developed all over her body. When she began taking Tanlac she had been in bed seven months and was as helpless as an infant. She grew so pale and thin it brought tears to my eyes, for I had little hope of her getting well."

"After a few doses of Tanlac she asked for something to eat and soon she was sleeping better and complaining less. Her improvement from then on was rapid and I was the happiest woman in the world when I saw her health was restored. She now weighs one hundred and forty-five pounds, which makes a gain of forty-five pounds, and her cheeks are like roses. Tanlac will have my life long praise."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35-million bottles sold. adv
